The Southwest Liturgical Conference is the oldest continuous regional liturgical conference in the United States, begun during the Second Vatican Council. This year SWLC will celebrate the 50th year of the Study Week, Tuesday, January 24–Friday, January 27, 2012, at the Sheraton Hotel in downtown Dallas, hosted by the Diocese of Dallas Liturgy Office.

Registration for the full conference is $135 through December 15 and includes a ticket for the Thursday evening banquet (a $65 value).

Cardinal Wuerl Opens the Conference

His Eminence Donald Cardinal Wuerl, Archbishop of Washington, will be the opening night featured speaker. The program begins Tuesday evening with the Gathering Rite at 7:15 and the Keynote Address at 8:15. Cardinal Wuerl will speak on The Word of God and the New Evangelization. He will help us to recognize that, though we live in a secular society, every disciple of Christ is called to be an agent of the New Evangelization and to profess with pride and conviction that the Gospel message continues to be the answer to our needs and longings today.

Following his address, join in a reception to welcome Cardinal Wuerl. Dessert and coffee will be served, and a cash bar will be available. There is no charge for those registered for the conference.

Many other excellent speakers will be presenting eight additional major addresses and 80 workshop sessions. Full schedule details are online for all major addresses and workshop sessions for the SWLC 2012 Study Week.

Cardinal DiNardo Sends Best Wishes for SWLC

In a letter received last week, Daniel Cardinal DiNardo, Archbishop of Galveston-Houston, extends best wishes to those attending the SWLC Study Week in January. He notes that this annual gathering is "an occasion for reflection and prayer, for it affords us a time to contemplate and ponder the great mystery of the liturgy, particularly in the initial months of the recent implementation of the new translation of the Roman Missal in the United States."
